

PENNSYLVANIA MILITARY INSTALLATIONS

REFERENCE MANUAL

Pennsylvania Base Development Committee

LTG Ronald E. Adams, USA (Ret.), Chairman

March 2009

TAB 1

INTRODUCTION

This manual has been prepared by the Pennsylvania Base Development Committee to provide general information on the eleven military installations and other military organizations within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is designed to assist key individuals throughout all levels of government and the private sector within the Commonwealth in enhancing and promoting the 71,000+ active, reserve, National Guard and Department of Defense positions within the Commonwealth.

The Commonwealth has undergone Base Realignment and Closure processes in 1988, 1991, 1993, 1995 and 2005. During these rounds the Commonwealth lost 4,607 military positions and 14,292 civilian positions. All were considered to be good paying and recession proof positions. The financial impact of the loss of these positions does not include the indirect and induced positions within the local communities.

The charter of the Pennsylvania Base Development Committee is fivefold: First, to enhance the military value at all installations and organizations located within the Commonwealth; Second, to enhance the military value of all positions associated with those installations and organizations; Third, to assist with the expansion of economic development opportunities and defense related industry clusters within the Commonwealth; Fourth, to welcome all new federally-related missions, organizations and operations to the Commonwealth; Fifth, to be the best possible host for all military organizations, the military and civilian personnel and their family members. The committee's intent is to both enhance and promote the military in Pennsylvania into the future.

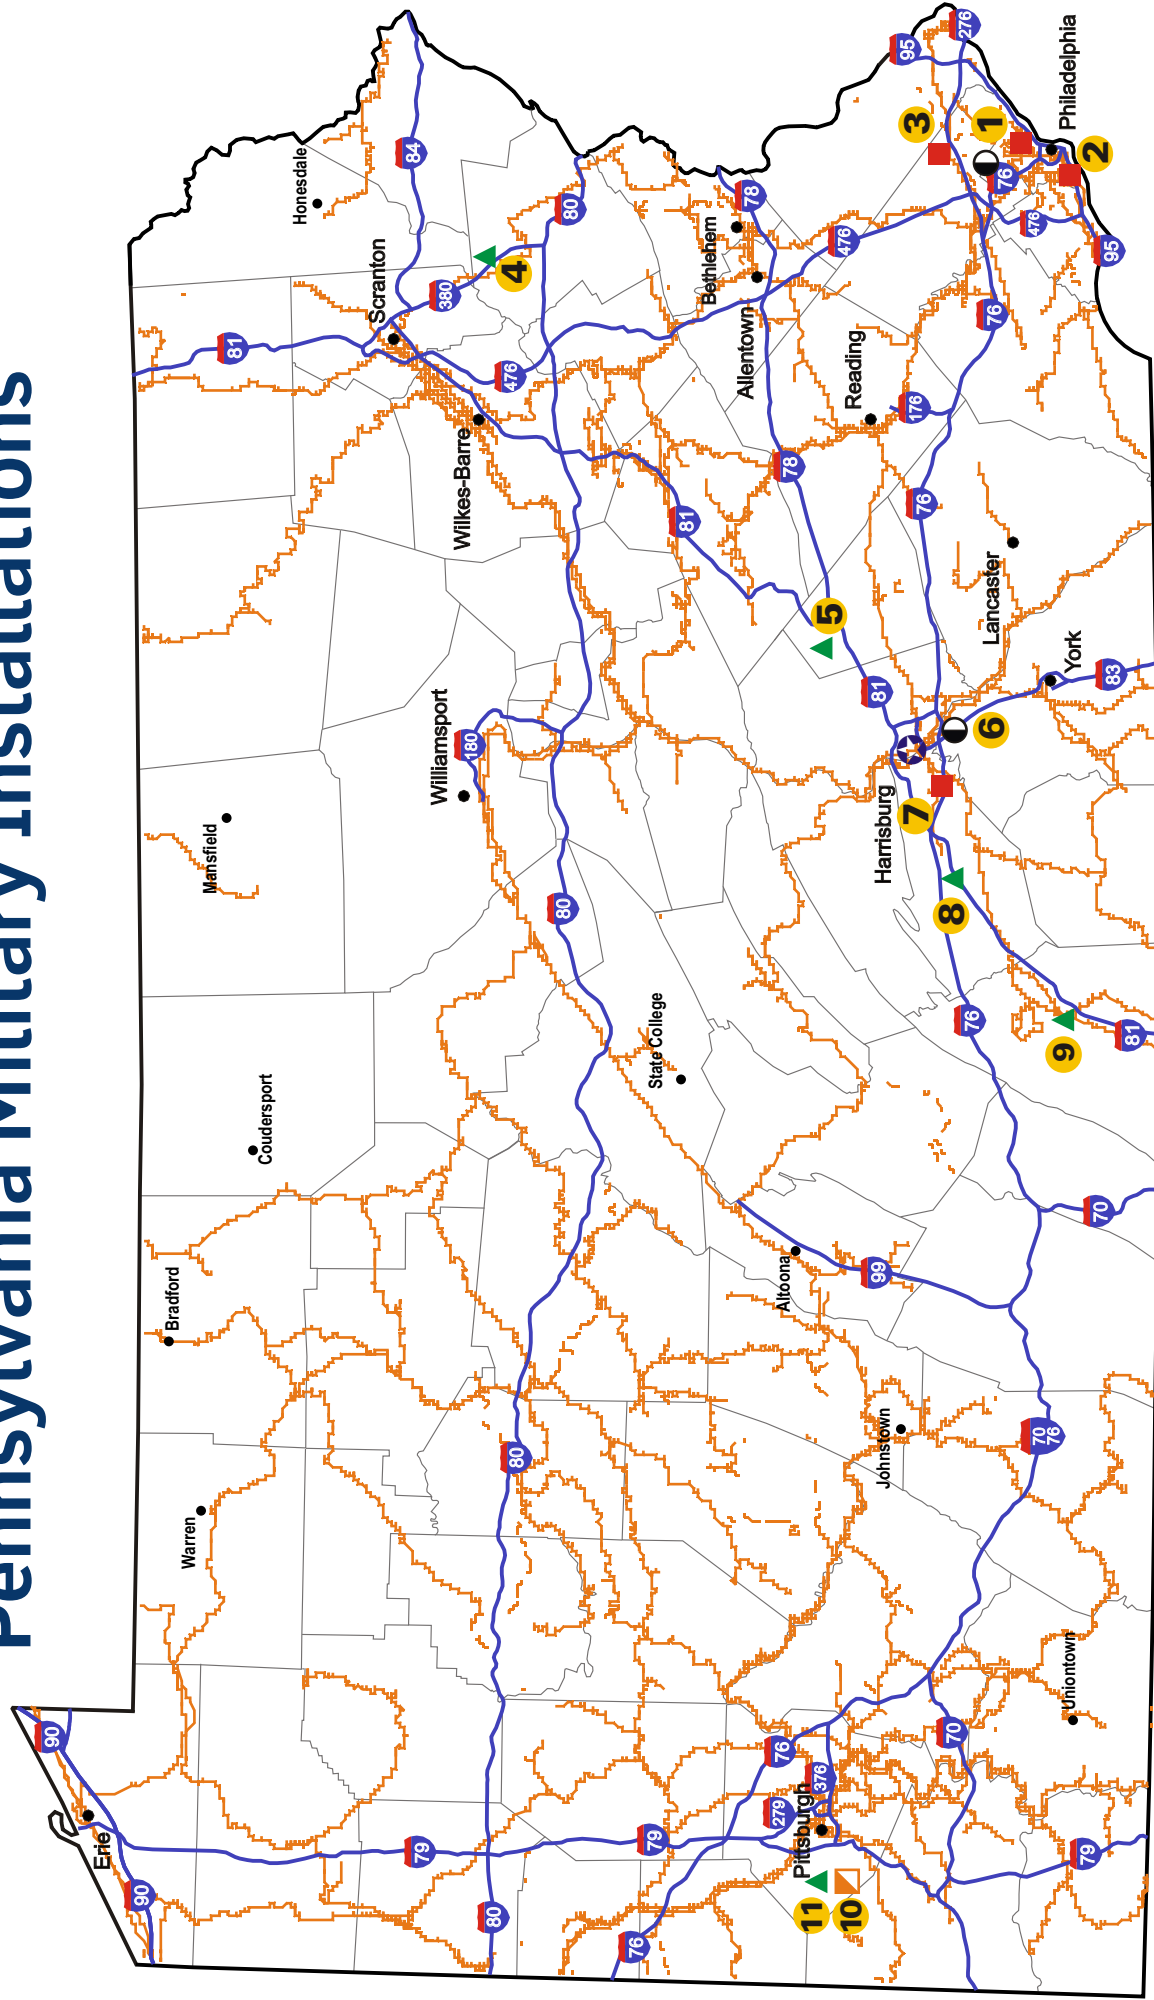

The Commonwealth is in a very unique position. It is not the garrison for an Active Army Division, or the homeport for a Navy Carrier battle Group, or the home base for a multi-faceted Air Force Wing. Instead, all active military installations within the Commonwealth are depots, logistics centers and one educational institution. In addition, there are Reserve Centers and numerous National Guard facilities located throughout Pennsylvania.

There are 15 sections in this manual. Each section contains general information on each of the Active, Reserve and National Guard installations and organizations within the Commonwealth. Section 15 is divided into 8 sub-sections which contain Army Corps of Engineers, Charles E. Kelly Support Facility, Military Entrance Processing Stations, Naval Operational Support Centers, Marine Corps Reserve Units, Air Force ROTC Units, Army ROTC units, Navy ROTC Units. For further information from the Pennsylvania Base Development committee, please contact Joseph Spielbauer, Director, at 717-720-7343.

MAJOR CHANGES TO INSTALLATION OR COMMAND RESULTING FROM PREVIOUS BRAC ACTIVITIES:

Pre-BRAC-91 the base (League Island Naval Complex) included the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard, Naval Station Philadelphia and 30+ tenant activities. At that time there were approximately 20,000+ military and civilian personnel at the complex (not including military aboard ships in for repair).

BRAC-91 closed the Naval Station and the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard, leaving the Naval Surface Warfare Center, Carderock Division, Ship Systems Engineering Station (NSWCCD-SSES); the Foundry and Propeller Center (NFPC); the Naval Inactive Ships Maintenance Facility Detachment (NISMF); and several small support detachments (FISC, PWC, etc.) as active commands. The property of PNSY inside the Controlled Industrial Area (CIA) was to be "preserved" while the remainder of the complex not occupied by NSWCCD-SSES, NFPC, NISMF, or the small support detachments was to be excessed and turned over to the City of Philadelphia through the Philadelphia Industrial Authority for Development (PAID).

BRAC-95 eliminated the majority of the CIA and closed NSWCCD Annapolis, transferring approximately 280 positions and $100M in facilities of Machinery Research and Development from Annapolis to NSWCCD Philadelphia.

Post BRAC-95 Following the shutdown to the Naval Station Philadelphia and the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard, NSWCCD-SSES (also known as NAVSSES) became the host activity for the remaining Navy/Federal activities at the "Naval Base". Closure ceremonies for NAVSTA Philadelphia were held in September 1995, and the closure ceremony for PNSY was held at the end of September 1996. During the interim, between the shutdown in early 1995 and the actual closure, approximately 200 PNSY employees closed up buildings and environmentally cleaned up property to be excessed/turned over to the City of Philadelphia (PAID). On 30 March 2000, the Philadelphia Authority for Industrial Development (PAID) signed the deed on behalf of the City of Philadelphia for all non-Navy-retained property at the League Island Complex – now the Philadelphia Naval Business Center, which was placed under the control of the Philadelphia Industrial Development Corporation for development as a privately owned industrial park. Portions of that property were, in turn, sold to private civilian industries, i.e. Aker Philadelphia Shipyard.

Post 1 October 2003 Commander Naval Installation (CNI), Mid-Atlantic Region assumed control and maintenance responsibility for all Navy-retained property, buildings, and roads. This removed the Host Activity responsibilities from NSWCCD-SSES.

During a three-year tour aboard USS Raleigh (LPD-1), Captain Opatz deployed to the North Atlantic (participating in Exercise Northern Wedding), Mediterranean Sea, and an emergent Arabian Gulf deployment in support of U.S. Mine-Sweeping operations. He served as the Boat Division Officer, 2nd Division Officer and Navigator/Personnel Officer, completing Surface Warfare qualifications.

Captain Opatz transitioned from Surface Warfare to Naval Aviation, and in December 1990, graduated as a Naval Flight Officer (NFO) from Training Squadron TEN (VT-10). He continued aviation training at E-2C Hawkeye Fleet Replacement Squadron (FRS) VAW-120 and received his NFO "Wings of Gold".

In November 1991, Captain Opatz joined the "Tigertails" of Airborne Early Warning Squadron ONE TWO FIVE (VAW-125) assigned aboard USS Saratoga (CV-60). Deployed twice to Mediterranean Sea, he participated in Operations Deny Flight/Provide Promise, Bosnia, and NATO Exercise Dynamic Impact. He achieved the CICO designation in eleven months, stood Anti-Surface (ASUW) and Air Resource Coordinator (AREC) watches; and in 1994, earned the coveted COMAEWWINGLANT "Hawkeye of the Year-at Sea" award.

Captain Opatz joined the "Greyhawks" of VAW-120 as an NFO Instructor and NATOPS Evaluator. While assigned to the Greyhawks, he earned a Master's Degree in Education from Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Virginia.

During this phase of transition and added training, the squadron maintained a 100% sortie completion rate on overseas detachments.

Captain Opatz proudly assumed command of VAW-77 in May 2005. The "Nightwolves" completed five counter narco-terrorist detachments O-CONUS; was the first E-2 squadron to respond to Hurricane Katrina disaster relief; and was awarded the Aviation Safety "S" Award for Class "A" Mishap-Free Flight Hours. MAJOR CHANGES TO INSTALLATION OR COMMAND RESULTING FROM PREVIOUS BRAC ACTIVITIES:

Tobyhanna has gained new missions and workload in each of five BRAC rounds. In BRAC-95, McClellan AFB in California closed and the ground communications-electronics maintenance mission performed there at the Sacramento Air Logistics Center was transferred to Tobyhanna. The three-year transition of capability on 161 systems was completed in September 2000. BRAC 95 also directed the realignment of Letterkenny Army Depot and the transfer of its missile guidance and control system repair workload on three tactical missile systems to Tobyhanna. This workload transfer was completed in July 2001.

As a result of BRAC 95 workload transitions, Tobyhanna Army Depot converted 125,000 sq. ft. of warehouse space into high-tech production facilities and added more than 7,000 sq. ft. of new facilities.

The depot is scheduled to gain workload from the Naval Weapons Station Seal Beach and the Marine Corps Logistics Base Barstow, both in California, as a result of BRAC 2005 recommendations. Once all of the missions have been adjusted, it is anticipated that there will be an additional 71 personnel added to the existing workforce.

The 1995 Base Realignment and Closure Commission recommended to the president that Fort Indiantown Gap be closed in 1998. The installation was closed in 1998 except for the major ranges and facilities that support the Pennsylvania National Guard. This action ended the active Army presence at the installation and transitioned it to National Guard control. This transition reduced overhead and duplication and streamlined operations at the installation. Some 350 active Army and Army civilian positions were terminated.

EFFECTIVE DATES OF PROMOTION:

(Current as of March 2007)

111th BRAC update

As part of the 2005 BRAC round, Navy and Marine units are slated to leave NASJRB Willow Grove by September 15, 2011. Air National Guard, Army National Guard and Army Reserve units will continue to be stationed there in a military enclave maintained at the base.

Congressional action has clarified the future status of the nearly 1,000 acres of Navy property at Willow Grove that will not be directly owned and operated by the military. Under Section 3703 of HR 2206 (the "U.S. Troop Readiness, Veterans' Care, Katrina Recovery and Iraq Accountability Appropriations Act" of 2007), which was signed into law in May 2007, the Navy is to transfer this property to the Air Force at no cost for designation as a Joint Interagency Installation for use by the Pennsylvania National Guard, other elements of the Armed Forces, other government agencies (federal, state and local), and associated users.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which agreed in principle to accept ownership and control of the Joint Interagency Installation from the Air Force, contracted for a feasibility study and implementation plan report, which was completed in March 2008. DMVA conducted a well-attended and lively public information meeting about the plan in later March. In April 2008, the Commonwealth advised the Air Force and the Navy of the desired footprint for the future Joint Interagency Installation, which essentially included all available federal government property within the fence line at NASJRB Willow Grove.

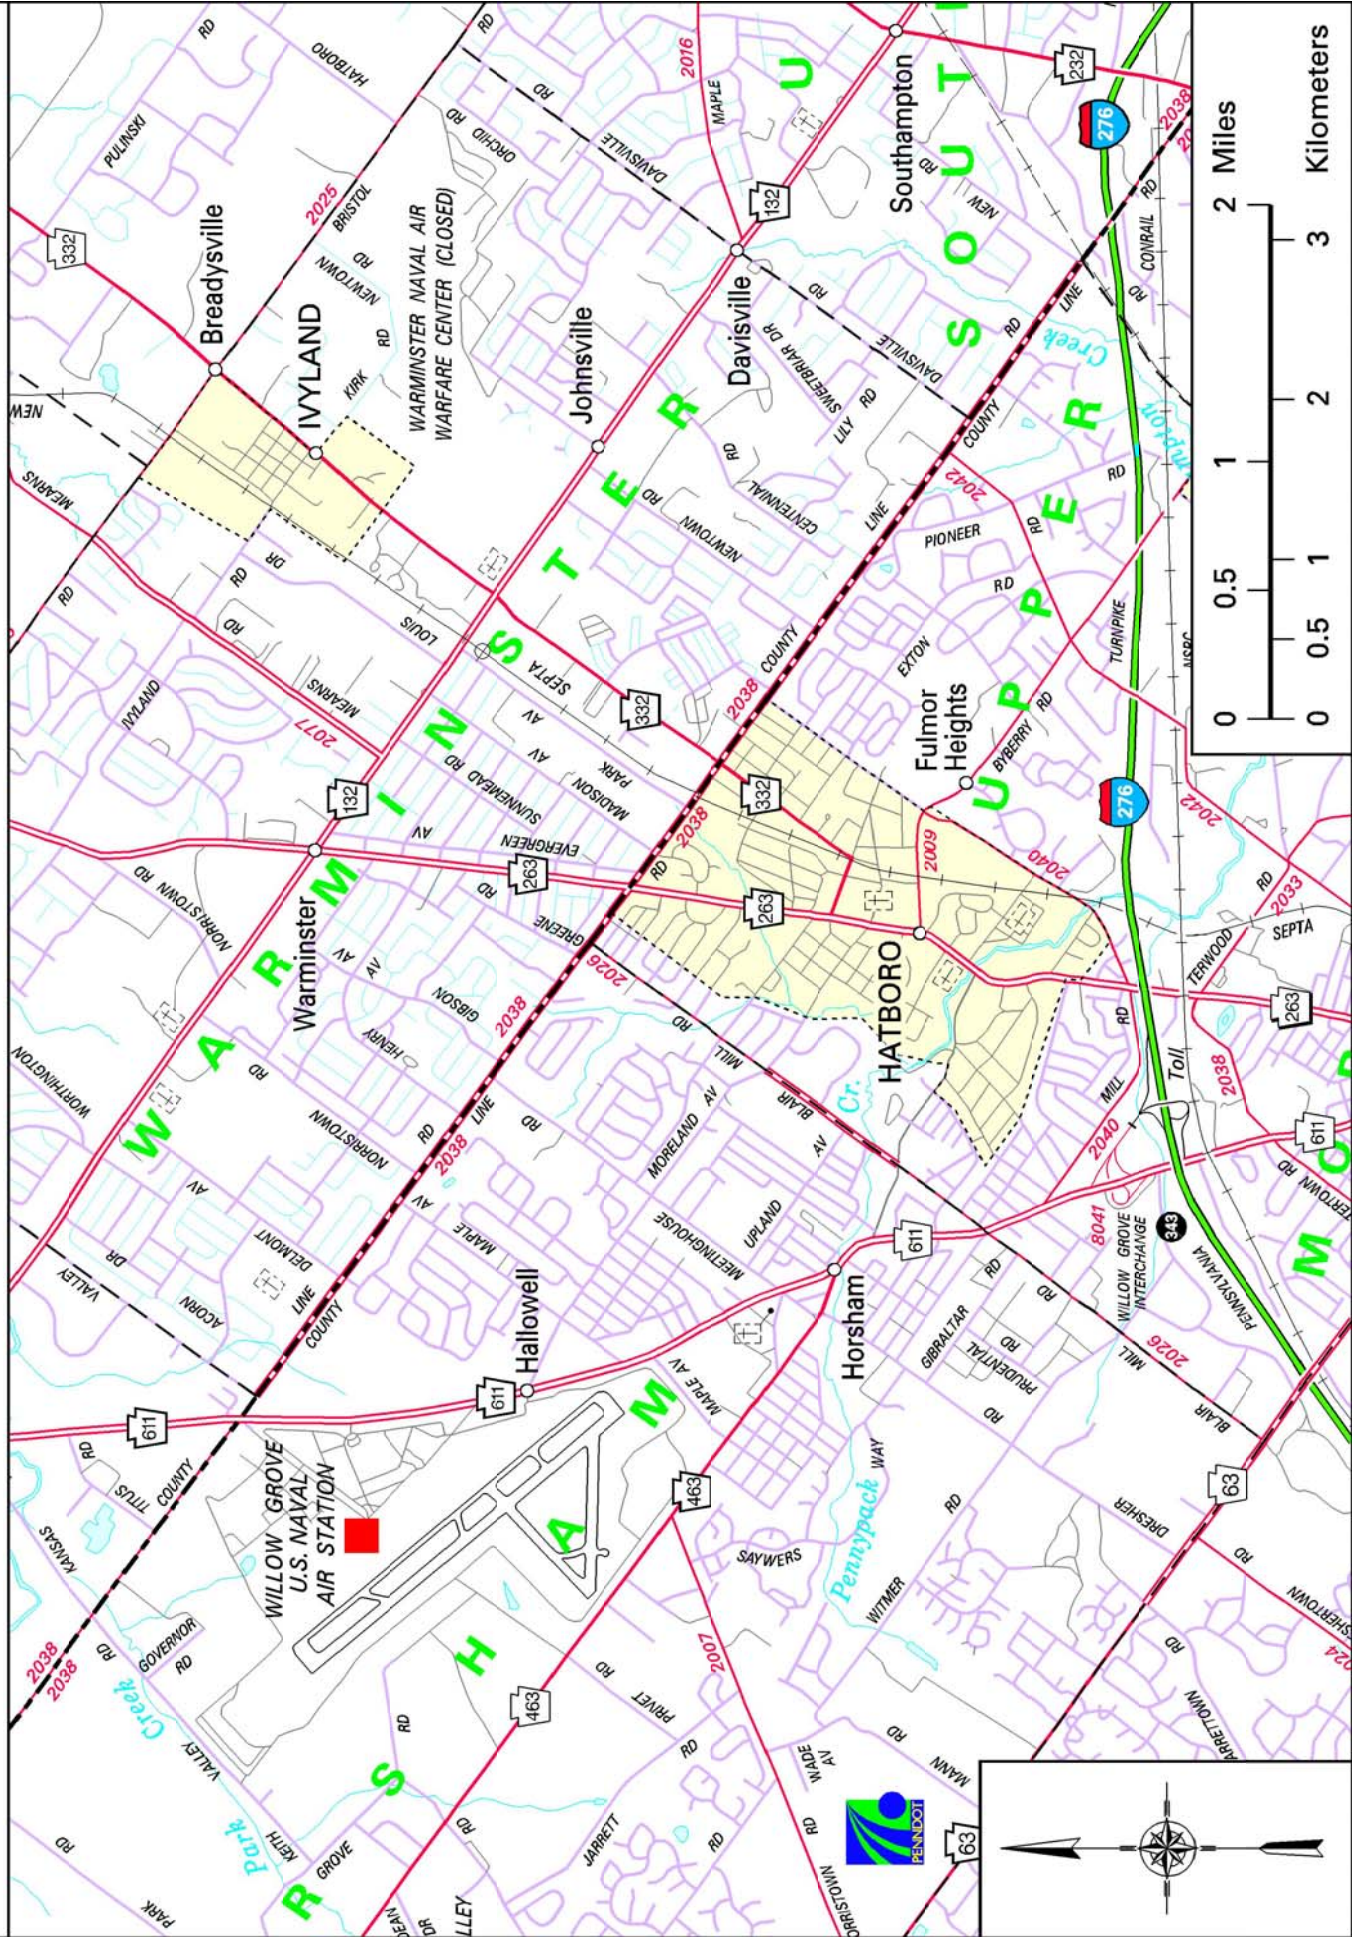

Congress again acted to set the future course of the new Joint Interagency Installation with enactment of Section 8115 of the Consolidated Security, Disaster Assistance, and Continuing Appropriations Act, which was signed into law by President Bush on September 30, 2008. This law formally establishes the "Horsham Joint Interagency Installation" and provides names for the installation and the airfield ("Pitcairn-Willow Grove Field"). It provides for the mandatory no-cost transfer of the property from the Air Force to the Commonwealth subject to provisions on future use of the installation.

This legislation is important because it makes it clear that establishment of the installation and its transfer to the Commonwealth is mandatory as a matter of federal law. It means that the HJII will be in operation under state jurisdiction and control, and an active airfield will be available for use by the military, government users, and associated users of the installation.

On October 14, 2008, President Bush signed the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 into law. Section 2854 of this legislation places limits on the use of the runway at the Horsham JII. It was endorsed by Governor Rendell and it represents a sensible and balanced approach to address local concerns about future airport use. This provision defines "associated users" of the installation and prohibits commercial passenger and cargo operations at the Pitcairn-Willow Grove Field except those supporting the national defense, homeland security and emergency preparedness missions of the Installation. It also provides that Pitcairn-Willow Grove Field will not be used as reliever airport except in emergency circumstances, and it limits use of the airfield to tenants of the Installation.

As 2008 comes to a close, the most pressing challenge facing Horsham Joint Interagency Installation and its adjacent military enclave is the need to firmly establish a future military flying mission for the 111th Fighter Wing of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard. Under BRAC 2005, this unit, and its allotment of personnel (end strength) are to be maintained at Willow Grove for missions assigned by the Department of Defense. Although the BRAC decision approved redistribution of the 111th Fighter Wing's A-10 (Thunderbolt) aircraft – which is scheduled to begin in Spring 2009 – it also encouraged the Air Force to keep an A-10 flying mission for the 111th. The Congressional actions with regard to the Horsham Joint Interagency Installation and Pitcairn-Willow Grove Field have removed a huge hurdle to assignment of a future flying mission to the 111th. These actions, coupled with the commitment of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the future of the installation, effectively assure that a fully-functional, 8,000 foot runway, with associated infrastructure; will be available in the future. The Installation, with its key strategic location and well-maintained facilities, is ready and able to support future military and government flying missions, and the Commonwealth must focus its efforts to convince the Department of Defense and other federal government agencies to base appropriate flying missions at this location.

ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

MISSION STATEMENT:

Pittsburgh District, Great Lakes and Ohio River Division, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers maintains and operates 23 locks and dams on the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio Rivers and 16 multi-purpose reservoirs in western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio, southwestern New York, northern West Virginia and western Maryland. Additionally, 42 local flood protection projects protect communities along nearby rivers and tributaries. All told, these facilities have paid off handsomely – providing well over $7 in flood damages averted for every $1 invested. Fueled by the expertise and dedication of its employees, the Pittsburgh District enhances the lives of the area's five million residents. With over 135 years of experience, Pittsburgh District has developed expertise to accomplish its varied missions which include flood control, navigation, recreation, fish and wildlife management, environmental protection and restoration, water supply, water quality, acid mine drainage remediation, construction management, low flow augmentation and emergency response.

Known as the Headwaters District, the Pittsburgh District has logged a number of firsts including construction of the nation's first federally funded lock and dam on an inland navigation system at Davis Island on the Ohio River. In the mountains of West Virginia, the District's Tygart Lake, completed in 1938, was one of the first flood control reservoirs in the nation. This tradition of firsts extends into the 21st Century as the District continues the $750 million Lower Monongahela River Navigation Project using innovative in-the-wet construction to build the new Braddock Dam. Our use of this technique is the first for a major inland navigation facility. We are also leaders in environmental restoration, returning brownfields and abandoned strip mines to useful areas and cleaning up rivers fouled by acid mine drainage.
